“Building a Community of Disciples”

June 8, 2014

Pentecost

Rush of Wind, Tongues of Fire

In today's reading from the Acts of the Apostles, Luke describes the power of the Holy Spirit in terms of noise — “a rush of violent wind”— and of light — “tongues of fire.” In the second reading from his first letter to the Corinthians, St. Paul eloquently describes the vitality of the community that is brought about through the manifestation of the unique gifts of each person. It is the Spirit that brings such diversity into a unity for the common good. Finally, the Gospel of John portrays Christ giving His peace to the disciples and breathing on them the Holy Spirit. Pentecost gives us an opportunity to once again discover and celebrate the ever-present wind and fire of the Spirit that is given to our faith community.

It would be impossible to overstate the fruitfulness of the Spirit in the many and varied ministries of our parish. Recently, some of the parishioners who made the Meeting Christ in Prayer (MCIP) retreat in recent years met for a ‘reunion.’ The evening provided an opportunity to revisit the retreat through an Examen on the Fruits of the Holy Spirit, through small group faith sharing, and through a brief presentation on lay-initiated-and-led prayer groups based on MCIP. One retreatant wrote of the experience, “It was a very exciting evening to see so many people so deeply engaged in prayer life. After all the readings from the Acts of the Apostles about the building of the post-Resurrection community these weeks, didn't it feel like we were very much in the presence of the Holy Spirit?”

We can't go it alone. We are meant to be a community and find encouragement and support from others who are seeking to grow in friendship with Christ.

– MCIP retreatant

A number of retreatants shared that MCIP provided a structure that helped them develop their personal prayer life through the use of Scripture. Using the Examen, they were able to reflect on the ways in which Christ had been present in their lives. Some retreatants also journaled, drawing on their own experiences as a way to reflect on prayer.

The retreat stirred a longing and a thirst for more. Some likened their relationship with Christ as that with someone with whom they could have a glass of wine or a cup of coffee and talk things over, friend to friend. Faith sharing offers an opportunity to learn from one another, to develop a sense of communion with others who are committed to their faith, and to support one another and to pray for each others' concerns and needs. Wind and fire! Coming to know others in the parish at the level of faith has made a difference for some in the quality of their presence at the weekly liturgy.

The true significance of Pentecost is found in the transformation within the disciples. Each one heard the bold proclamation of the Spirit in his or her own language. The nine women and men who recently completed the 19th Annotation Retreat in Daily Life give testimony to hearing the Word, to sorting through disparate voices in order to receive understanding and insight in the abiding gift of the Spirit. One woman reflected, “I expected a ‘forward’ orientation and discovered the journey was ‘interior.’ I grew to let Jesus lead and became acutely aware of the in-dwelling of the Holy Spirit in being led to co-create with God in my loving.”

Breaking open the Word together connects us with the rest of the world.

– MCIP retreatant

Another woman shared, “The greatest gift was the deepening of my relationship with Jesus, my awareness of His love, and the peace that I found in Him and through Him. The graces go on and on despite the ending of the retreat.” Finally, a third witness to the work of the Spirit related, “I entered into Jesus' story and He into mine. My relationships, day to day experiences, and understanding of my graced history become more deeply rooted in God's tender love and mercy. The graces continue to unfold!”

The Sequence for the liturgy of Pentecost, attributed to Pope Innocent III (1198-1216), echoes the driving wind and fire of these reflections: Heal what is wounded! Water what is barren! Bend what has become rigid! Warm what has become cold! Direct what is going astray! Veni Sancte Spiritus!
