The Ignatian Way: Prayer, Service, Community

March 12, 2017

Second Sunday of Lent

Heralds of Hope

How do you contemplate a mystery? How do you reflect on something you don't quite understand? How do you talk about it?

The Ignatian Young Adults Lenten reflection group meets weekly and meditates on the Sunday Gospel through Lectio Divina, a method of praying with Scripture. Meditating on a reading like today's Transfiguration seems like a tall order. Even the disciples, who are there with Jesus, don't know what they are seeing. In the face of Moses, Elijah, and a transfigured Jesus, Peter wants to build a tent!

When faced with something so awesome, so inexplicable, so miraculous, it appears that we tend to fall back on things we know to make sense out of the situation. (It appears that Peter is an excellent tent builder as well as a lifelong fisherman.) However, this miracle, this mystery is no puzzle to solve nor case to close. Rather, it is an invitation to be silent. As Peter is going on about his brilliant idea to pitch tents, God cuts him off, calls attention back to Jesus, and commands him to listen. "Listening is the beginning of prayer," in the words of St. Teresa of Calcutta.

The season of Lent invites us to go on a journey of hope. "Hope," as the philosopher Gabriel Marcel says, "is a mystery and not a problem." It is inherently communal because it is relational; it is not a conditioned means to an end. During Lent we give up candy in the hope of losing some weight or coffee in the hope of getting more sleep. When we look at Lent this way, our acts simply become a solution to a problem. This Lent, rather, I challenge us to approach the season in an intentional way. We are invited to dive into the mystery of Jesus' life, death, and resurrection. We are summoned to enter into a relationship with God and put our trust in God's love for us.

We can accept this invitation by listening and creating time for silence. This requires sacrifice and surrender. Like Peter, we can fixate on action, on what we can do. Time and time again, God calls us simply to listen. During Lent, I tend to focus on fasting and almsgiving that I seem to forget prayer. More often, I can get so caught up in the busyness of my days that I forget that I'd given up chocolate until I'm halfway through a Milky Way. Through it all, I miss the call just to be present.

St. Ignatius Loyola wrote a radical prayer called the Suscipe that encapsulates this surrender and entering into hope. It ends with such beauty, asking only for God's love and grace. It is a total trust in God to strive for.

Take Lord, and receive all my liberty, my memory, my understanding, and my entire will, all that I have and possess. You have given all to me. To You, O Lord, I return it. Everything is Yours. Do with it what You will. Give me only Your love and Your grace, for that is enough for me.

In today's Second Reading we are reminded: He saved us and called us to a holy life, not according to our works but according to his own design (2 Timothy 1:9). God calls us on this journey to undergo our own transfigurations. At the end of Lent, we don't simply return to who we once were. We go beyond who we once were, activating within us the call to a holy life. We become heralds of hope, messengers of God's love.

Marcel goes on to summarize in his book Homo Viator that "hope is essentially the availability of a soul which has entered intimately enough into the experience of communion to accomplish in the teeth of will and knowledge the transcendent act."

This Lent, we are invited to be available to God. By being available to God, we are available to respond to others in need, to be heralds of hope.

Stations of the Cross for Families

Sunday, April 2nd at 12:15 PM

Stations are places where people wait while they are traveling from one place to another. Church stations are also places where people take time to think about Jesus as he went to die on a cross.

They are Stations of the Cross and show us how much Jesus loved us. Praying the Stations of the Cross is a Lenten tradition.

This year we invite families to join us in the Church on Sunday, April 2nd at 12:15 PM where we will walk the Stations of the Cross together. At each Station we will stop and listen to a short reading and say a prayer.

Please join us and begin making the Stations of the Cross an annual Lenten observance for you and your family.
