Twenty-fifth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Our Parish, Our Home

We celebrate this weekend the installation of a new Pastor, who also happens to be the author of this essay. We know his name. I have known it all my life. We know something about him. Some of us have talked with him and know him in a personal way. Some of us have read his bulletin essays. Many of us have heard him preach. And now he formally becomes our Pastor. Perhaps now is the appropriate time to ask the questions, what is a Pastor? and, will this Jesuit priest who arrived here a little more than a year ago be a good Pastor? Does he know us and what we need?

As I have been preparing myself for today's installation, the questions which I just posed as yours have been mine. I have received no formal training to become a Pastor. I have lived most of my life as a Jesuit in Boston and have worked in Jesuit apostolates as a university administrator, lawyer, and Jesuit province treasurer. Those were my Monday to Friday, 9 to 5, full-time jobs. My part-time weekend work for almost thirty years was in parish ministry.

Am I ready to be your Pastor? There is absolutely no doubt in my mind or in my heart! I joyfully and wholeheartedly take on this responsibility. Allow me to reiterate what I wrote in the bulletin essay at the time the announcement of my appointment was made: With the help of God, you will find in me a Pastor who wishes to share with you the JOY of knowing Christ, a teacher who will lead by example, a priest who will strive to nurture your faith and invite you to celebrate your diversity with a unifying spirit of compassion and mercy, and a companion of Jesus who will search for those who are lost and reach out to those who have been forgotten.

In a meeting with Polish bishops during his pilgrimage to World Youth Day in Krakow, Pope Francis responded to a question about the role of a parish in today's world. The Holy Father responded by saying that the parish is "the home of the people of God." He elaborated on this simple statement and said "the holy people of God wear you out. They naturally do whatever they think best.

And this wears you out!" He further remarked that "a parish is exhausting if it is well organized," as "a place of creativity, a reference point, a mother."

In my brief time here, I have learned that as a faith community, this parish has fashioned a home. And like any home, we are united in love, one of heart. As with most families who share a home, we agree on most matters, we disagree on some. We value and respect each other, while challenging each other with new ways of thinking. We are rooted, and we grow outward. All of this takes a lot of work. It is exhausting. The creativity of our parish is reflected in our diverse ministries. The depth of our faith commitment is evidenced in the ways we work tirelessly together to proclaim the joy of the Gospel!

As Pastor, it is my responsibility to listen and be attentive to what is stirring in your hearts and to ignite that flame which, in the words of St. Ignatius, will lead us into the world to set it ablaze with the love of God. With God's help, we will work together to break the barrier of insularity so that we can journey to those who barely survive on the margins and hunger for the recognition of their human dignity. From our home, we will share with those in need the blessings we have received so that we may learn well the lessons of being men and women for others. As your Pastor, I will lead us in prayer when we feel that we are on the point of exhaustion, so that we are energized by our Ignatian values of prayer, community, and service, knowing that all that we do is for the greater glory of God.

And now to the answers to our questions. I believe I do know what it means to be a Pastor. Relying on God's grace and your prayers, I will try my best to be a good one. And finally, I have not only come to know you, I have come to love you.

Oremus pro invicem. Let us pray for one another.

A group will meet during the year to inquire into the Catholic faith, to come to know Jesus through the Gospels, and to pray and to prepare for the Easter Sacraments.

This process, which is called the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults, is also open to those Catholic adults who have not received the Sacraments of First Communion or Confirmation.

Water, Wind and Fire: The Holy Spirit in the New Testament

Presented by Mr. Brian Pinter

Six Sessions Beginning October 19th
Wednesdays at 7:00 PM, Meeting Room

Our ancestors in faith have long been aware of God's immediate presence and impact on the human experience. Through their sacred writings they sought to express their sense of God's creative, redeeming, inspiring power. Their metaphors and names for this mysterious but palpable presence evolved over the centuries until they came to call this energy the Holy Spirit.

Our study and discussion will explore the work of the Spirit as recorded in the New Testament, especially the writing of Luke, John, and Paul. We will seek to examine also how the biblical record impacted later theology of the Holy Spirit in the developing Christian Tradition.

Brian Pinter is the former Chaplain and Teacher of Theology at Regis High School. He is currently the Education Associate and Bible scholar-in-residence at Christ Church United Methodist. Mr. Pinter holds degrees in theology and religion from St. Joseph's and Fordham Universities.

Space is limited. Early registration is recommended.
