Rosary Rangers

Next Sunday, November 11th, is the annual commemoration of Veterans Day, a time set aside to honor and thank members of the military who have served the United States in wartime. The day will be marked in many ways. Poppies will be sold, parades and church services will be held, wreaths will be laid at memorials, and flags will be placed in cemeteries.

Here at St. Ignatius Loyola there is a group that focuses year-round on Catholics who are serving in the armed forces: the Ranger Rosary Ministers. Twice a month a core group of 10 members, led by parishioner Marilyn Esposito, gathers to make what are known as combat rosaries. These lightweight rosaries are constructed of parachute cord, dark beads, and black plastic crucifixes – materials containing no metal parts that might reflect light or make a rattling noise.

Once the technique of stringing and knotting is mastered, it takes approximately 15-20 minutes to create a rosary. Members also create them at home, so that at the end of each meeting between 75-100 are ready to be blessed. To conclude the meeting, a decade of the rosary is prayed for those who are serving in the military and for the families of those who did not return from combat. The rosaries are then sent to Ranger Rosary headquarters at St. Mary's Parish in Annapolis, Maryland, for distribution to our troops around the world. Since August 2009, when the Rosary Rangers began meeting at St. Ignatius Loyola, the group has made more than 5,000 rosaries.

The idea for a “Ranger” Rosary came from Frank Ristaino, a St. Mary parishioner and sergeant in the Maryland National Guard. During training as part of a land navigation course, he was given a “pace-keeping” instrument consisting of plastic beads strung onto parachute cord. After pacing 100 meters, he would slide one of nine beads from the top of the string to the bottom. Ristaino realized that the heavy cord and beads would make an excellent ultra-tough rosary for soldiers in combat zones.

Ranger Rosary’s mission is to put a rosary into the hands of any member of the military who wants one. Since its inception nine years ago, 800,000 rosaries have been made. Membership has grown to more than 30 churches and dozens of individuals across the United States. Hundreds of chaplains of all denominations request these free rosaries for the men and women that they serve. A thousand rosaries are mailed out each week and the need is constant.

One chaplain wrote, “The Ranger Rosary is very popular among our young soldiers because they look and feel so Army-like. Once they hold it in their hands, it is a powerful reminder of their Catholic faith and the love that Our Lord and His Blessed Mother have for each of us no matter where harm’s way may take us.”

Although Marilyn has no connection to the military, she was drawn to the Ranger Rosary ministry after learning about them via their website. Making rosaries inspired a passion to share her faith with members of the military and with others at St. Ignatius. “I enjoy the camaraderie of our meetings, encouraging members to master the skills necessary to create the rosaries, and recognizing that each rosary we make will soon be in the hands of a soldier.”

Another member of the group added, “Being a part of this ministry has been a truly fulfilling experience. With every bead we are sending our deepest prayers of gratitude to our troops for their tireless efforts.”

New members are always welcome to join the Rosary Rangers. “It’s a friendly group and a wonderful ministry,” noted Marilyn. “We meet twice a month on Monday evenings and provide both instructions and materials.”

You are encouraged to stop by the Meeting Room this coming Monday evening at 7:00 PM and let Marilyn and her team teach you how to make a combat rosary. As Veteran’s Day approaches, it would be a wonderful way to say thank you to the men and women serving our country.

ELECTION 2012

Faithful Citizenship

WHAT DOES THE CHURCH SAY ABOUT CATHOLIC SOCIAL TEACHING IN THE PUBLIC SQUARE?

A consistent ethic of life should guide all Catholic engagement in political life. This Catholic ethic neither treats all issues as morally equivalent nor reduces Catholic teaching to one or two issues. It anchors the Catholic commitment to defend human life and other human rights, from conception until natural death, in the fundamental obligation to respect the dignity of every human being as a child of God. Catholic voters should use Catholic teaching to examine candidates’ positions on issues and should consider candidates’ integrity, philosophy, and performance. It is important for all citizens “to see beyond party politics, to analyze campaign rhetoric critically, and to choose their political leaders according to principle, not party affiliation or mere self-interest” (Living the Gospel of Life, no. 33).

In light of Catholic teaching, as bishops we vigorously repeat our call for a renewed politics that focuses on moral principles, the defense of life, the needs of the weak, and the pursuit of the common good. This kind of political participation reflects the social teaching of our Church and the best traditions of our nation.

IGNATIAN YOUNG ADULTS

IYA Advent Reflection Group
Sundays: November 25th, December 2nd, 9th, & 16th
6:00 – 7:15 PM in the Parish Lounge

The Ignatian Young Adults (20s and 30s) are sponsoring a sharing group during Advent. The spirituality of the season will be explored by using Richard Rohr’s book, Preparing for Christmas: Daily Meditations for Advent, as a starting point.

During each meeting, facilitated by a young adult peer leader, there will be an opportunity to reflect more deeply on the daily readings for the season of Advent.

RSVP by Sunday, November 18th to Fr. Anthony SooHoo, S.J.: soohooa@stignatiusloyola.org

Please bring a copy of Richard Rohr’s book to the first meeting. It can be purchased online at amazon.com

We highly encourage those interested in participating to make a commitment to being present at all of the sessions. This will ensure a deeper and more prayerful experience for all involved.

Socials Fall Schedule

The Sunday Socials are held in Wallace Hall at 8:30 PM, following the 7:30 PM Mass. They are hosted by the Ignatian Young Adults for those in their 20’s and 30’s. We look forward to seeing you there!
