My mother instilled in her children the importance of a good education. She did all in her power to ensure that our main mission was to be a student—despite our protests! So, when my family immigrated to the United States, my mother sought out the nearest Jesuit high school. And she made sure that we got in. Thanks to my family, I have had the privilege of receiving a Jesuit education. I am a proud alumna of St. Ignatius College Preparatory and the University of San Francisco. Currently I am a graduate student of Santa Clara University’s Jesuit School of Theology in Berkeley and have the distinct pleasure of working here at our Jesuit parish. Aside from being able to name more Jesuit schools than NHL hockey teams, and to incorporate words like “cura personalis” and “Magis” into my everyday lexicon, I have been formed by my Jesuit education in the way in which I see the world and act in it.

Before his death in 2011, Father Dean Brackley, S.J. would welcome student groups visiting El Salvador—where he lived and worked—with an invitation to downward mobility. This invitation was extended to me over and over again throughout the course of my studies and professional life. Father Brackley said, “I invite you to discover your vocation in downward mobility. It’s a scary request…. The world is obsessed with wealth and security and upward mobility and prestige. But let us teach solidarity, walking with the victims, serving and loving. I offer this for you to consider—downward mobility. And I would say in this enterprise there is a great deal of hope.

Have the courage to lose control.
Have the courage to feel useless.
Have the courage to listen.
Have the courage to receive.
Have the courage to let your heart be broken.
Have the courage to feel.
Have the courage to fall in love.
Have the courage to get ruined for life.
Have the courage to make a friend.”

This weekend, we celebrate the annual “Jesuit Friends and Alumni” weekend. It is one of my favorite weekends: alumni and friends from different Jesuit schools and institutions who live in New York gather together for prayer at the 7:30PM Mass and fellowship afterwards. It reminds me of the vibrant student Masses I attended as an undergrad at USF. It reminds me that I am a part of a large Ignatian family.

This weekend also reminds me that my education is a great gift and a great privilege, and also a great responsibility. I am called to spend that privilege, to live as a woman with and for others. I am called to answer the invitation to downward mobility, to have courage. I must confess, there are times in my life when I am better at practicing upward mobility than downward. I prefer to be served rather than to serve. I toil and do seek rest. Rather than having courage, I relish my weakness. To be with others in the world, to care, especially in the midst of turmoil, can be overwhelming. There is a great sense of urgency to respond to all the crises in the nation, in the world, and in the Church, but I cannot find the courage to admit I’m not in control. Yet this weekend’s readings remind me that our Savior sympathizes with our weaknesses. I draw strength from Jesus, who gave his life out of love. He also calls us to drink of the same cup, to participate in the same baptism. It is the invitation of downward mobility. If my Jesuit education has taught me anything, it has been to engage with the world in all its brokenness and all its beauty; to find God in all things.

FROM THE PASTOR’S DESK
Dear Parishioners,
I am delighted to announce we have reached a milestone in Your Parish, Your Home—the Campaign for the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola. In the six months since the formal announcement of the campaign, $4.0 million has been contributed toward our goal of $7.5 million.

We will certainly reach our fund-raising goal within the scheduled three-year campaign, but it will require all of us to contribute to its success. Within this past week you may have received a letter from me. If not, it is on its way to you. I am asking for your support of the campaign. Would it not be a wonderful testament to our commitment to the parish if we achieved 100% participation among registered parishioners, each contributing at a level appropriate to his or her means. If you are not a registered parishioner and worship with us on a regular or periodic basis, I invite you to join us in support of the capital campaign. It is as simple as sending in your contribution by using a capital campaign envelope found at the end of each pew in the church.

In regard to the projects supported by the capital campaign, the construction of the new entryway ramp into the Parish House and the installation of a sprinkler system in McKinnon Hall are completed. In November we will begin work on the installation of fire alarm systems in the church and Wallace Hall and a sprinkler system in Wallace Hall. We will also construct a handicap accessible bathroom in Wallace Hall. The regular use of the church and Wallace Hall will not be adversely affected by the installation of these systems or the construction of the bathroom. While this work is being done we will determine the most appropriate time to schedule the construction of the exterior elevator on the 84th Street side of the church that will provide access to Wallace Hall and a more manageable entry ramp into the church.

We have come a long way in six months, but we still have a long way to go before we can celebrate the successful conclusion of Your Parish, Your Home. Please join us in making an investment in the future of the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola by your prayers and financial support of the capital campaign.

Sincerely in the Lord,

Fr. Yesalonia

People of the Book by Geraldine Brooks

People of the Book traces the harrowing journey of the famed Sarajevo Haggadah, a beautifully illuminated Hebrew manuscript created in 15th century Spain.

When it falls to Hanna Heath, an Australian rare-book expert, to conserve this priceless work, the series of tiny artifacts she discovers in its ancient binding—an insect wing fragment, wine stains, salt crystals, a white hair—only begin to unlock its deep mysteries and unexpectedly plunges Hanna into the intrigues of fine art forgers and ultra-nationalist fanatics.
